

Caribbean sea outings

THE Caribbean climate is one of the most equable in the world—equally delightful in summer or winter. And a Great White Fleet Cruise to the Caribbean is an ideal vacation at any season.

Long, lazy days at sea combined with the picturesque interest of foreign lands. Cuba, Jamaica, Panama, Costa Rica, Colombia, Guatemala. Quaint native life, historic cities, glamor of old adventure on the Spanish Main.

22-day Cruises from $15. 15-day Jamaica Vacations from $10. Blue-ribbon sailings from New York.

Free-illustrated folder, "Sea Outings" folder and cabin plans. Write today.

Address: Passenger Dept. UNITED FRUIT CO. 17 Battery Pl. or 281 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

Gen. Offices, 131 State St., Boston

GREAT WHITE FLEET

Your Own Analysis

Neither the printed word nor master salesmanship should definitely determine your ownership of an automobile.

The most simple process of deduction, absolute proofs which you can quickly grasp, will be presented and no obligation will be incurred.

Our unbounded faith in the Hupmobile covers fourteen years and in all that time we have never received other than sincere praise of the Hupmobile.

It is easy to own a Hupmobile.

Open Models $1250 Closed Models $1485, $1835, $1935

VAN ALSTYNE MOTOR CORP.

1876 Broadway

Service Station Telephone

616 W. 56th St. 8725 Columbus

BRONX BRANCH

Grand Concourse nr. Fordham Road and

William Parkinson Motor Sales Co.

1796 Broadway

Hupmobile

Last sittings of the season on Wednesday the 14th.

PIRIE, MACDONALD

Photographers of Men.

576 FIFTH AV. COR. 47th ST.

MADE REPAIRED

WILKE

PIPE SHOP

267 BWAY, 2ND FLOOR

WILKE ORIGINATED UNPAINTED

BRIAR ROSE PIPES

Say

Ben-Gay

for Head Colds

Say Ben-Gay at any drug store and you will get a tube of the original

French Baume Bengay (Analgesic),

then rub Baume on outside of nostrils and squeeze 1/2 in. of

Baume in a bowl of boiling water

—inhale the steam. Keep a tube handy for Rose Cold and Hay Fever.

THOS. LEEING & CO., NEW YORK

WIDOW ARRESTED IN BRUNEN MURDER

Parker Believes Mt. Holly Showman Was Victim of Three Cornered Plot.

FRAMEUP CHARGED TOO

Circumstantial Web Is Wound Around Three Persons Now in Jail.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., June 13.—Mrs. Doris Brunen has been lodged in the Burlington county jail charged with murder in connection with the slaying of her husband, "Honest John" Brunen, in his home in Riverside, N. J., March 10.

She was arrested in Camden late last night. In the county jail also charged with the murder are her brother Harry C. Mohr and Charles M. Powell. Powell, a former employee of Brunen's circus, confessed in April to having fired the fatal shot and charged Mohr with hiring him to commit the murder. Mrs. Brunen's arrest was made at the order of Detective Ellis Parker of Burlington county.

A report to-day said that another woman may be brought into the case. It was said she was outside the Brunen home when the murder was committed. This, however, Detective Parker denied, although he admitted that the case was not yet cleaned up.

The detective said from the beginning he suspected Harry Mohr and Mrs. Brunen of having instigated the murder. To-day he recalled how statements made directly after the murder by Mrs. Brunen, Hazel Brunen and Harry Mohr all directed suspicion toward George Werner, a circus cook, saying they had seen him several times near the house. The statements, Parker charged, constituted a "frameup" originated because Powell and Werner are of similar appearance. Parker learned quickly that Werner was innocent and then suspected the frameup about the time Mrs. Elizabeth Jaeske, Brunen's sister, caused a sensation by making public a letter written to her by the murdered man stating he believed his wife was planning to have him "done away with."

Just before "Honest John" was taken to the cemetery Mrs. Brunen threw her self on his bier, kissed his lips and called for him to come back to life and name his slayer. Then, at an order from Detective Parker, who had by that time learned that twenty-five minutes had elapsed between the time Mrs. Brunen found her murdered husband and the time she summoned aid, Mrs. Jaeske announced she no longer believed Mrs. Brunen guilty of the crime.

Mrs. Jaeske then went to visit Mrs. Brunen in the Riverside home, on advice of the detective, and learned much that led to Mrs. Brunen's arrest. While Powell, when questioned by the detective, always showed a tendency to shield all women linked with the case, bits of information obtained from him, after his confession, caused the detective to order the arrest of the widow of the murdered showman.

It was learned that on Christmas day prior to the murder, "Honest John" and his wife engaged in a quarrel, ending with an exchange of revolver shots in their home. Mrs. Brunen emptied five chambers of a revolver, only one bullet hitting her husband.

Detective Parker had planned to arrest Mrs. Brunen soon after the murder, but the premature publication of Brunen's letter to his sister, "showed Parker's hand," and he then let her alone. When he did question her, he did so in a perfunctory fashion, as he wished to lull her into a sense of security, while he sifted his evidence.

Mrs. Brunen was constantly under surveillance while she lived in an apartment in Philadelphia. Her mail was watched and her telephone calls were noted.

Mrs. Brunen was arrested in Camden by detective Cain of Parker's staff, and State Trooper Badling, who have been working on the case since the beginning. For days they had waited for her to go to Camden, and when she finally did so, Monday night, they stopped her and explained that Detective Parker wished to talk with her in his office in Mount Holly. She consented to accompany them there, unaware that Cain carried a warrant for her.

At the conclusion of a half hour's interview between Parker and Mrs. Brunen she was taken to jail, after she had waived a hearing. The case has not as yet been taken before the Grand Jury, which will not be convened again until autumn.

RATTLESNAKE GENTLEMAN, SAYS MRS. EUSTACE AT ZOO

African Huntress Visits Reptiles in Bronx Park and Finds Some Nice Boa Constrictors to Fondle and Pet.

Mrs. Harry K. Eustace, who arrived recently from the South African jungles, where she was on friendly terms with all the wild animals, journeyed to the New York Zoological Park yesterday to play with some of her favorite snakes. She felt particularly lonely, and this slight and very feminine looking woman admitted, for the "boa constrictors," the pythons and the hooded cobras. After all, a New York hotel is different from a jungle home. There aren't any rattlesnakes wriggling all over the place or darting at you unexpectedly from doorways.

Which reminds one that Mr. Eustace—he was there, husband of Mrs. Eustace, you know, dressed in gray golf clothes, gray felt helmet and flowing whiskers and mustache—remarked that snakes never do get used to doorways. "Now a cat," explained the explorer husband of the jungle huntress, "does learn after a while to jerk his tail out of the way when a door slams shut. But a snake never does. He's constantly getting his tail jammed."

When Dr. William T. Hornaday, director of the Zoo, and Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of reptiles, heard that the fair visitor was approaching they put their feet down firmly against any fondling of the hooded cobras and the pythons. For two reasons, they explained, because pythons and cobras are dangerous and they don't want to be disturbed.

The big boa constrictor was not at all friendly. He's the "ash can" snake, so called because the man who brought him over to sell to the Zoo for something like $1,500 threw him into the ash can when he thought the boa was dead, and later he discovered that the snake had busted the lid off and had crawled up near a furnace. That actually brought him back to life, though for a long time he wasn't much to speak of as a snake, measuring almost nothing in circumference and bringing only $50. Now the big boa measures 24 feet in length and weighs 175 pounds.

Keeper Fred Taggart prodded each of his three tiers of new coils and still old "Ash Can" wouldn't budge. Mrs. Eustace figured out that, anyway, she could lift only half the monster and said it is foolhardy to play with snakes when they don't want to be played with. There were a "couple" nice, gentle boa constrictors that Dr. Hornaday and Curator Ditmars said she could fondle in fact, the whole family petted the snakes. Miss Hylda Kaigh Eustace, 10, who has spent six years in the jungle with her parents, is just about as keen about snakes as her mother. Miss Hylda has decided to give up jungle life for two years and go to school in England, where her mother was born. Mr. and Mrs. Eustace will return to Africa.

The bigger of the two boas measures about nine feet and weighs thirty pounds. Mrs. Eustace let the snake lick her cheek and coil himself around her arms, neck and waist. Curator Ditmars kept a watchful eye on the snake, which he declared, would bite a person not familiar with snake handling gestures. He had ready a lot of snake bite serum well laid, and alongside it the proper tools for applying same. It seems, they no longer use the old time remedy.

Mrs. Eustace, who is seeing America for the first time, knows some of our most popular snakes. The rattler, she avers, is the "gentleman" snake, because he says, "I can't help being poisonous, but I can give you warning," so he does.

There were a "couple" nice, gentle boa constrictors that Dr. Hornaday and Curator Ditmars said she could fondle in fact, the whole family petted the snakes. Miss Hylda Kaigh Eustace, 10, who has spent six years in the jungle with her parents, is just about as keen about snakes as her mother. Miss Hylda has decided to give up jungle life for two years and go to school in England, where her mother was born. Mr. and Mrs. Eustace will return to Africa.

The bigger of the two boas measures about nine feet and weighs thirty pounds. Mrs. Eustace let the snake lick her cheek and coil himself around her arms, neck and waist. Curator Ditmars kept a watchful eye on the snake, which he declared, would bite a person not familiar with snake handling gestures. He had ready a lot of snake bite serum well laid, and alongside it the proper tools for applying same. It seems, they no longer use the old time remedy.

Mrs. Eustace, who is seeing America for the first time, knows some of our most popular snakes. The rattler, she avers, is the "gentleman" snake, because he says, "I can't help being poisonous, but I can give you warning," so he does.

There were a "couple" nice, gentle boa constrictors that Dr. Hornaday and Curator Ditmars said she could fondle in fact, the whole family petted the snakes. Miss Hylda Kaigh Eustace, 10, who has spent six years in the jungle with her parents, is just about as keen about snakes as her mother. Miss Hylda has decided to give up jungle life for two years and go to school in England, where her mother was born. Mr. and Mrs. Eustace will return to Africa.

The bigger of the two boas measures about nine feet and weighs thirty pounds. Mrs. Eustace let the snake lick her cheek and coil himself around her arms, neck and waist. Curator Ditmars kept a watchful eye on the snake, which he declared, would bite a person not familiar with snake handling gestures. He had ready a lot of snake bite serum well laid, and alongside it the proper tools for applying same. It seems, they no longer use the old time remedy.

Mrs. Eustace, who is seeing America for the first time, knows some of our most popular snakes. The rattler, she avers, is the "gentleman" snake, because he says, "I can't help being poisonous, but I can give you warning," so he does.

There were a "couple" nice, gentle boa constrictors that Dr. Hornaday and Curator Ditmars said she could fondle in fact, the whole family petted the snakes. Miss Hylda Kaigh Eustace, 10, who has spent six years in the jungle with her parents, is just about as keen about snakes as her mother. Miss Hylda has decided to give up jungle life for two years and go to school in England, where her mother was born. Mr. and Mrs. Eustace will return to Africa.

The bigger of the two boas measures about nine feet and weighs thirty pounds. Mrs. Eustace let the snake lick her cheek and coil himself around her arms, neck and waist. Curator Ditmars kept a watchful eye on the snake, which he declared, would bite a person not familiar with snake handling gestures. He had ready a lot of snake bite serum well laid, and alongside it the proper tools for applying same. It seems, they no longer use the old time remedy.

Mrs. Eustace, who is seeing America for the first time, knows some of our most popular snakes. The rattler, she avers, is the "gentleman" snake, because he says, "I can't help being poisonous, but I can give you warning," so he does.

WINE CARDS SHOW U. S. VESSELS WET

House Members Twitted About Absurdities Seen in the Volstead Enforcement.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

New York Herald Bureau, Washington, D. C., June 13.

Representative Gallivan (Mass.) today ridiculed prohibition enforcement by the Federal Government, which permits the sale of intoxicating liquor on Shipboard. Gallivan submitted the wine list of the President's private, formerly Peninsular State, as proof that liquor was being sold on Government owned ships.

"We have the lovely Volstead idea as interpreted by Volstead's friend Lasker," Mr. Gallivan said, "which is a paradox—We may not get drunk on land but we can get drunk on water. The tolling millions are ruthlessly deprived of the comforts of life, the solace of their domestic living, and the safeguards of health by sectarian fanaticism while the wealthy still laugh at the obstacles the law set up; and the rich and leisurely tourists find the law a negation and a force on the ships that sail the sea under the American flag."

"Here and now," Mr. Gallivan continued, "I desire to call attention to and emphasize the barefaced hypocrisy of a Government appropriating money to enforce prohibition and at the same time appropriating more money to advertise the violation of its own laws on its own ships the minute they get outside the three mile limit."

Mr. Gallivan then read the following list:

UNITED STATES LINES S. S. PENINSULAR LINE.

WINE LIST.

CLARETS AND BURGUNDIES.

Per Bottle.

Bar Sec. $2.00

Haute Sauternes $3.00

Moulin au Vent $2.75

Pommard $2.00

St. Emilion $2.00

Pontet Canet $1.50

CHAMPAGNES.

Cordon Rouge, 1911, quarts $7.00

Cordon Rouge, 1911, pints $3.75

Moet & Chandon, imported, quarts $7.00

Moet & Chandon, imported, pints $3.75

Merlot, quarts $3.00

Heidsieck, quarts $3.00

Heidsieck, pints $3.25

VERMOUTH, PORT AND SHERRY.

Per Glass.

Vermouth, Italian $2.00

Vermouth, French $2.00

Port Wine, old $2.00

Sherry $2.00

SPIRITS.

Whiskey—Black and White, Johnny Walker, Haig & Haig, Jameson $2.00

Whiskey—American Rye $2.00

London Dry Gin $2.00

Bonkamp $2.00

COGNAC.

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

COGNAC $2.00

Steinhager	Per Bottle	23	D. Reesler's extra light (small)	Per Bottle	23
Jamaica Rum	Per Bottle	23	Base ale, pints	Per Bottle	23
Cognac (Martell Three Star) Per Bottle	Per Bottle	30	Scout, Guinness	Per Bottle	23
LIQUEURS.	Per Bottle	30	French Vichy	Per Bottle	23
Chartreuse, Green	Per Bottle	30	Sarsaparilla, Lemon, Ginger Ale	Per Bottle	23
Chartreuse, Yellow	Per Bottle	30	Appollinaris, pints	Per Bottle	23
Creme de Menthe, White	Per Bottle	30	Club Soda, splits	Per Bottle	23
Creme de Menthe, Green	Per Bottle	30	Real Haven Fruit Water	Per Bottle	23
Benedictine	Per Bottle	30	BEERS, MINERAL WATERS, &C.	Per Bottle	23
D. Reesler's extra light	Per Bottle	40

have, by a vindictive and un-American propaganda, inaugurated a reign of terror in and out of Congress. They are a body whose ideal is a practical union of Church and State—their Church and a State run by them according to their peculiar ideas—so that the American republic of free men and sane laws may be supplanted by a quasi religious autocracy, superior to the Constitution and administered directly and indirectly by their men, their parsons, partisans, parasites, plunderers and press."

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

New York Herald Bureau, Washington, D. C., June 13.

Representative Gallivan (Mass.) today ridiculed prohibition enforcement by the Federal Government, which permits the sale of intoxicating liquor on Shipboard. Gallivan submitted the wine list of the President's private, formerly Peninsular State, as proof that liquor was being sold on Government owned ships.

"We have the lovely Volstead idea as interpreted by Volstead's friend Lasker," Mr. Gallivan said, "which is a paradox—We may not get drunk on land but we can get drunk on water. The tolling millions are ruthlessly deprived of the comforts of life, the solace of their domestic living, and the safeguards of health by sectarian fanaticism while the wealthy still laugh at the obstacles the law set up; and the rich and leisurely tourists find the law a negation and a force on the ships that sail the sea under the American flag."

"Here and now," Mr. Gallivan continued, "I desire to call attention to and emphasize the barefaced hypocrisy of a Government appropriating money to enforce prohibition and at the same time appropriating more money to advertise the violation of its own laws on its own ships the minute they get outside the three mile limit."

Mr. Gallivan then read the following list:

UNITED STATES LINES S. S. PENINSULAR LINE.

WINE LIST.

CLARETS AND BURGUNDIES.

Per Bottle.

Bar Sec. $2.00

Haute Sauternes $3.00

Moulin au Vent $2.75

Pommard $2.00

St. Emilion $2.00

Pontet Canet $1.50

CHAMPAGNES.

Cordon Rouge, 1911, quarts $7.00

Cordon Rouge, 1911, pints $3.75

Moet & Chandon, imported, quarts $7.00

Moet & Chandon, imported, pints $3.75

Merlot, quarts $3.00

Heidsieck, quarts $3.00

Heidsieck, pints $3.25

VERMOUTH, PORT AND SHERRY.

Per Glass.

Vermouth, Italian $2.00